A unique concert experience in a new genre of world music

The Sound of Seasons is an expansive, collaborative community production that explores ideas common to all of humanity, through a symphonic musical journey weaving a garland of the ancient ragas of India that celebrate the changing seasons of the year. The Sound of Seasons will come alive on May 6, 2007 with The Greater Cincinnati Indian Children's Choir, the Cincinnati Children's Choir, guest singers from the Shanti Choir and the Cincinnati Chamber Orchestra in a music score that cuts across cultures integrating choral and orchestral harmony with the ancient ragas of India.

The Sound of Seasons is composed and produced by Cincinnati based composer Kanniks Kannikeswaran and it represents the culmination of the workshop series 'Beyond Seasons' where children have been exploring the seasonal ragas of India in conjunction with the changing seasons.

Join us in this historic event bringing together a diverse group of children from around the Cincinnati area, building community around music.
